A Scene at the Hayden Trial.

NEW HAVEN, Dec 10—There was a dramatic scene in the Hayden trial to day during the cross examination of Mrs Hayden Mr. Waller asked the following question

"Now, madam, you needn't answer this question until you are told to by the court Hayden, you say is your husband, the father of your three children, and that he has been a devoted husband to a loving wife for seven eight and nine years, that you have constantly maintained pleasant relations, and that there has been and is now the utmost confidence existing between you and you are convinced of his innocence, and that if he is found guilty he must suffer the ominous punishment Under these circumstances, would you not under oath as wife, make a mistatement?"

There was no answer The witness burst into tears, as did nearly every woman in the room, and tears glistened in the eyes of many of the sterner sex A silence as of death invaded the room, and the counsel for the defense hissed out, "It is an insult to the court" Waller defended his action, but the court ruled the question an improper one

A New Motor

NEW YORK, Dec 10—The Commercial Bulletin says that the engineers of the Manhattan elevated railroad lines and others to whom the knowledge of the fact has come are deeply excited over the recent successes in the application of the plant now or shortly to be put in use for the purpose of obtaining motive power from the combustion of carbon in the form of coal. For which a patent was taken out by Lieutenant Ericsson last April It promises a revolution in machinery motors The machine is set to work by the transmission of the above chemical agent from the chamber of a condenser to the boiler of an ordinary non condensing steam engine, the boiler being filled with water heated to the boiling point, and the engine is then set in motion by the vapor thus formed Further experiments are now being made with the machine, which is said to be capable of being developed from the present limited power controlled by a single man to that of a thousand horses, and which can be applied to the propulsion of vessels as well as to the driving of machinery on land. It is also claimed that the machine is capable of being worked with perfect safety, and that the cost of motive power will be reduced to a mere trifle

HIGH PRICES THE TRUE TEST

Probably few manufacturers or producers in the United States are prepared to hear that there is a decline in prices which is regarded by all over the country as a hopeful sign as being a result of industrial and financial health For a speculator a decline in prices means a time of inactivity by which he may not benefit sides and on a large margin of profit but this can last only while the movement lasts but few anybody else can be greatly benefited is not so ready to seem For a few some sound reasons why the advanced cost of what the people consume is not be always taken as an indication of permanent prosperity and opposite of some of the injuries which the rise produces such as health undue stimulation of production the too long bidding or too large buying of stocks and all the disturbances with which always the reaction and the immediate benefits go but little way toward offsetting them wholesaler or retailer can be helped by selling for more money what he has to buy for more money on the contrary both are prejudiced in two ways by their desire to prospect for trade they do not raise their selling prices quite as much as their buying ones rise and consumers try to diminish their consumption In fact there is hardly a greater fallacy than that of high prices advantages Protection uses it everywhere especially whispering in the farmers ears Higher prices for all you sell but always omitting to add and for all you buy Of course nobody can be foolish enough to deny that the consumer loses to the extent that he gets less of necessaries for his dollar as to his profiting in the capacity of producer and seller it must be remembered that every man is only a broker for all the rest and that all he gets for income is the remainder between his receipts and his outgoes A uniform increase in prices equivalent to a specific shrinkage in everybody's dollar could not change this remainder for anybody an increase not uniform—such as always is the case—works unequally

Instead of high prices being connected with prosperity the Times writer regards that as largely dependent upon and defined by cheapness The desirable activity in trade and manufactures and the ample employment of labor is claimed to accompany a gradual decline in prices. Dealers and producers may find their profits on smaller margins but in enlarged transactions To the typical consumer, the development of cheapness means the enlargement of his comforts and of the scope of his existence.

The time when everybody will ride in his coach is of course, a greenbacker's day dream but it may be possible, if the outgo is not necessarily as large as the in come, for the coachman to be something more than a coachman. From necessaries to comforts, from comforts to luxuries,—this is the ladder of civilization from one century to another In times of Alfred, horn lanterns and rush lights in England in that of Elizabeth blocks of wood for pillows, eighty years ago carpets were a rarity on "best rooms" now they are found in the humblest cottages And if we look over the marvelous list of increased variety and abundance added since 1840 it is evident that cheapness and abundance and consumption have gone hand in hand. Only through abundance of production and cheapness of price can the masses enlarge the variety and volume of their consumption The truest prosperity may perhaps be found in a stability of prices during a long period of time, and a very gradual lowering of them indeed it ought, by this time to be accepted that one of the worst afflictions is instability in prices production and industrial conditions. And we come to the conclusion that the true condition of prosperity lies in an increase of consumption together with a gradual decline of prices consequent upon increased abundance

4 MOSES WANTED

The proceedings of congress so far indicate that the democratic party is somewhat puzzled to know what course is best to take so as to make the greatest amount of political capital out of the present session Holding the majority in both branches of the national legislature it will properly be held responsible for the work which is done as well as for that which is omitted What then is its best policy? for of late that party has been in a strait as to what is really its best course, and the man who could point out the safe way would be regarded by its members as a Moses indeed What is wanted is some one who will mark out a course, which being pursued, will advance the presidential interests of the party in the election next year. With the reflection that it is incumbent on the party to shape the measures of the session comes the convict on that no one of the leaders has the ability to tell how it is to be done Several of the leaders have given them advice Speaker Randall who, says an exchange, since the election in Pennsylvania has presumably worn a chastened air—is reported as advising that the controversies of the extra session be abandoned If the democratic party propose to respect the popular verdict as rendered at the ballot boxes last month, they will follow this advice. But as the Chicago Tribune well points out, the democrats have now the same temptation to seek the repeal of the national election laws which betrayed them into their folly of last spring and last summer, heir purpose from the beginning being to open the way to wholesale frauds at the presidential election of next year

It is doubtful if Randall could carry his party with him in support of this policy In current democracy is the worse elements that generally rule, and the worse elements can be relied on to continue the struggle in congress to remove the safeguards that surround the right of suffrage. Senator Bill Eaton another gentleman who has not been in a cheerful frame of mind since election—also is in favor of a policy of masterly inactivity at this session. He thinks that if this policy is adopted and a candidate is nominated at the democratic national convention who can carry New York, the future of the party will be bright For the reason just stated Mr Eaton's first suggestion is likely to fall to the ground The second suggestion is a good one, the only trouble with it being that it is not destined to be realized

Mr Fernando Wood, returning to his native land refreshed by a long vacation goes no further in his attempt at organizing a policy for the session than to suggest that the tariff question be brought to the front and that a modified bill be passed But experience has shown that the tariff is a matter that bores assessions Mr Woods experience in that regard in congress ought to give weight him and if the sessions [illegible] dispatch from Washington [illegible] as to be able to benefit him they were [illegible] compelled to [illegible] suggestions [illegible] duty is to be compelled to [illegible]

The portion of the annual report of the [illegible] statistics contains some items of the total of the imports of the country for [illegible] is during the past few months [illegible] interesting as showing the effect of [illegible] The excess of exports over imports of the first eight months

FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 12, 1879.

HOOKER ABOVE THE CLOUDS

Hark! Hear the distant clatter of heavy horses' feet!
Look! Yonder, up the mountain, two mighty armies meet!
See! Upward, as they rally, mid shell and roar of fire!
And higher, upward, upward soldiers one by one!
There! See the brave boys falling, mow'd down with deadly hail,
And others marching over, with faces dim and pale!
They reach the craggy casements and scale the lofty height,
And, look you! in the center, in the thickest of the fight,
Stands grand old Joseph Hooker, cheering his trusty men:
Till upward, through the gates of Death, to Victory again!
The battle is still raging, its fiercest, well I ween;
The foes are hot with anger, but blazing as they be,
The one is filled with groaning, the sky is red with fire.
And louder is growing fiercer as the contest rages higher.
The creaking shells and powder, the deaf'ning cannon's roar
I see how the contest rages though some will hear no more.
But brave old General Hooker with kingly form and proud,
Has led and still is leading, in a light above the cloud.
His sword in Heaven's sunlight, with gleaming sword and brow,
We hear the Victor's orders—we seem to hear them now:

'Tis years, but like as yesterday breaks for the storied war
That Hooker, brave old Hooker, is no more needed here!
Retired, with rank and honor, to a field beyond the clouds,
They care not for his armor there—they leave behind his shrouds.
But heading from the battlements beyond bold Lookout's peak,
He'd tell us to be watchful! to guard the rights of Mack!
His life has told us this before, as only brave lives can,
Rest to dissolute body and peace to his spirit brave!
Cheers to the Flag and Country he gave his life to save!

DETROIT, Nov. 27. HABEY HILDRETH.

A MELODRAMATIC MEAL.

HOW A DISTINGUISHED TRAGEDIAN ORDERED HIS DINNER.

[From the Cincinnati Times.]

Few people dine in these days carry the polished manners of the stage into ordinary intercourse in real life, as did many of the histrionic heroes and heroines of the past. Goldsmith said of Garrick:

"On the stage he is natural, simple, affecting,
'Tis only when off the stage he is acting."

History tells us that the great Siddons was wont to "stab the poniard" at meal time. Of our modern wooers of the tragic muse it is said that Lawrence Barrett is most prone in this regard to follow the example of his distinguished predecessors to such an extent that he orders his meals in blank verse. Such a scene as the following, a veracious chronicler tells, was witnessed at the Burnet House last week:

Enter obsequious waiter. Rattles dishes and shoots bill of fare at the great tragedian in the customary style.

Waiter—Soup sir?

Great tragedian—Aye, bring it me.
And likewise that, whose name
Is but a synonym for azure depths.
And then in haste procure for me a modicum of beef.

Waiter—Rare or well done?

G. H.—Let not the fires its carmine hue too much embrown
Nor from it let the bright, red blood too freely flow.
Just done enough, my palate pleases best.
Bring too the succulent endeared to sons of crushed Hibernia.
And with it apples of Jerusalem stewed,
And "Bascom street berries," that the vulgar name as beans,
And when thou hast this charge fulfilled.
Bring me for dessert that napoleonic thing
That puzzled England's king:
Whose bothered brain could ne'er surmise
Just how the apple in the dough was put.
Then let me have a dark decoction
Of that brown berry the Arab loves.
Now, mental hireling, haste thy tardy limbs,
For hungered am I, and the craving which my inwards feel
Must soon be satisfied.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Washington.

The outlook for Yakima county is more promising for the coming season.

The road between Ellensburg and Yakima City is in a very bad condition.

Waitsburg is making rapid improvement. Among other improvements they have just completed a good school house.

The drive of cattle from Eastern Washington to the Sound country during the season by the Snoqualmie pass was about 4000 head.

A correspondent writing to the Columbia Chronicle truthfully says: People who come to this country expecting to find every comfort and convenience of an old and settled community will be sadly disappointed. Such immigrants are comparatively few, yet now and then one wanders out here, but soon leaves disgusted. But to the new comer who comes here with the determination to make the best of it, this country offers inducements equal to any on the globe. If he is the right kind of a man, his life will not be one of uninteresting drudgery. There is a pleasure in the same wild life that every well constituted man will enjoy.

Western Washington.

A woman, reeling and staggering through the streets, shouting and yelling in a most disgraceful manner, was one of the recent scenes in Seattle.

Yesler's Best Citizens.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Interesting details continue to come to hand concerning the way Mississippi was kept "solid" for the democratic party. As the information comes entirely from the democratic journals of Mississippi it will not be possible to dispose of it by the familiar process of branding it as a "pack of radical lies." In the counties of Rankin, Jasper and Yazoo the "best citizens" filled themselves with whisky and marched up and down the streets by the polling places yelling like madmen and firing their revolvers in the air. The Brandon Record says: "In Brandon, we acknowledge it with shame, the streets were filled with the most outrageous drunkenness. In Jasper county, in some precincts, drunkenness reigned supreme. In Claiborne, the ballot box was kicked out of the house by desperadoes; at Cook's Mills, independent tickets were arrested in the hands of a white man, the man's jaws slapped, and the life of his son threatened. In Paulding, a negro was beaten down in the streets, and reported dead upon the roadside some distance from the town the next day; and at an early hour of the day following the election, a crowd of countrymen, numbering some ten or a dozen, came in town in full gallop on horseback, armed with double-barreled shotguns and clubs, yelling like hyenas and, dismounting, stacked their shotguns and guns in the court house, ready to see that the nominated ticket was elected."

What a delight it must be to the northern democrat to know that all this fun was allowed to go on without the interference of the "shadow of a Federal bayonet" on a free and unrammeled ballot box!

Moses.

Speaking of the Indian chief Moses, the secretary of the interior, in his report, says:

There never was any trustworthy information in possession of this department to justify any suspicion as to the conduct or intentions of this Indian chief. On the contrary, he is known to have rendered good service during the Bannock trouble in maintaining peace and good order among the Indians under his influence. But the efforts to take his life, or at least his liberty, or to drive him into hostilities, appeared to be so persistent that it required the most watchful and active interposition on the part of the government to prevent a conflict. On several occasions I requested the governor of the territory to give his personal attention to this matter, and to him, as well as to General Howard, I have to express my acknowledgments for prompt and effective co-operation with this department in the measures taken to effect a peaceable solution of the difficulty.

Opposition to Fools and Fossils.

[Col. Inman in Deadwood Pioneer.]

Three southern papers, the Memphis Avalanche Vicksburg Herald and Atlanta Constitution, are acquiring national reputation by the independence and common sense of their course. Their platform, in brief, is: Opposition to fools and fossils, and recognition of the fact that this is 1879 instead of 1789. In the ancient and mummified lexicon of bourbonistic democracy this is the next recruiting and tallest treason; but it is bound to win all the same. The world moves, and the south must move with it or be dropped off behind or run over before it.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

The republican majority in Wisconsin at the recent election was nearly 27,000. This is the largest ever given in the state, that of no presidential election ever reaching so high. It isn't strange, therefore, that the democrats have ceased to claim Wisconsin as "sure" for next year. That "doubtful" column which gave the democrats so much comfort before they heard from the country, is a good deal like the rail which the Irishman brought to stop a gap in a fence and discovered that it would reach only halfway. "Be jabers, it is too short on the wan end."

N. Y. Tribune.

It is said in Washington that Speaker Randall called at No. 15 Cipher Alley on his way to the capital, and had a confidential whisper with the sage. From this the natural inference is draw that he will represent Mr. Tilden's interests during the coming session. The most valuable service any one can do for Tilden is to keep the party's mouth shut as much as possible, and Randall has been more successful in that direction, heretofore, than almost any other man in congress.

MARK LANE REPORT.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Mark Lane Express reviewing the British grain trade for the past week, says: As a rule farmers [illegible] England have not suffered by any delay in their operations caused by the frost, but in Scotland plowing is much in arrears. The deliveries of home grown wheat were slightly less than the previous week, but in consequence of there being no material improvement in the quality business was very slow, both in London and country markets, with little or no change in prices. Imports of foreign wheat have again been large at London during the past fortnight. These supplies, though doubtless in excess of present requirements, have therefore been very little depressing effect on the trade, which possesses many qualities of inherent strength, the principal of which is the rise in the American supply. It appears strictly true, that if increased activity and animation excitement may be felt before the close of the year, as further shipments are impossible from Southern Russian ports and will soon be locked up. It is for the moment lethargic. As America holds the key of the position, the first impulse towards renewal of activity must come from her. Mails advanced six pence per quarter in consequence of a scarcity. Owing to excessive arrivals, sales of oats were difficult, even at a reduction of 2d to 6d per quarter. Sales of English wheat last week amounted to 38,428 qrs, at 46 7d per qr., against 37,856 for the week ending Nov. 29. Imports into the United Kingdom were 1,610,425 hundred weights of wheat and 260,129 hundred weights of flour.

Nothing Short of Unmistakable Benefits Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYER'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most effectual of all remedies for scrofulous, mercurial or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain in its remedial effects. It produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Tumors, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaint, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use, and is to-day the most available medicine for the suffering sick anywhere. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co. Portland, wholesale agents.

IT IS SELDOM THAT WE NOTICE anything in the medical line, nor would we now, unless we could be convinced that we are not doing our duty as a journalist in recommending to the public a well combined botanical preparation of Dr. Henry. When ever induces the victim of scrofula or any other disease of the blood to use Dr. Henry's Extract of Sarsaparilla, he has begun a good work. There can be no question as to the result of this medicine if persevered in. It is a sure cure for Scrofula, Rheumatism, salt Rheum, and indeed all complaints arising from vitiated or impoverished blood. It is just what a good physician would prescribe for these complaints, and we confidently recommend it as being the best article now in use. Dr. Henry's Cough Balsam is the most effective remedy for any affections of the Throat or lungs that we have ever known. It contains no deleterious drugs, and can be taken with impunity and certainty of relief. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, sore Throat etc., it stands without a rival. Dr. Henry's liniment is an excellent for of pain, is unrivaled by any preparation before the public; the most skeptical will be convinced by a single trial. It will prove itself a "friend in need" which no friend should be without.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York.
